Real life situations, satire and caricatures at sunday@subi

The Gilbert and Sullivan Society of Western Australia will take the City of Subiaco's sunday@subi audience through the light operas and witty dialogue of W. S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan on Sunday 11 August.

The society will perform a number of excerpts from different works, including The Mikado, The Gondoliers and Ruddigore.

The group has been performing since 1951, bringing these masterpieces to the public and providing performance opportunities for the Perth community who can join to be a member at any time.

Society President Max Page said they were looking forward to performing for the Subiaco community at the fantastic Subiaco Arts Centre.

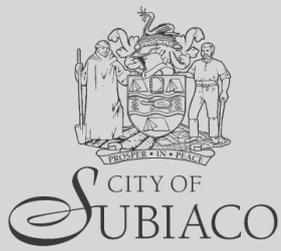

"The reason we perform is because we love it and we hope the audience, both young and old, will as well," Max said.

Tickets are available from 1.15pm on the day of the concert and are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. All attendees must be present when the tickets are allocated. There will be a short break during the concert where attendees can enjoy a coffee or drink from the bar.

The sunday@subi free concert series covers a mix of themes and genres suitable for all ages. The concerts run every Sunday until 25 August at 2pm at the Subiaco Arts Centre, 180 Hamersley Road, Subiaco.
