sunday@subi winter concerts will blow you away

The City of Subiaco's sunday@subi winter concert series is back in 2013 with a new and exciting program.

Mayor Heather Henderson said this year audiences would see fresh musical delights that will have them coming back for more.

"The sunday@subi concerts are extremely popular in Subiaco and we promise to deliver another exceptional season.

"The concerts will again be taking place at Subiaco Arts Centre, which is a fantastic venue for the amazing shows we have planned," Mayor Henderson said.

The season will be opened on Sunday 23 June by Mill Point Quartet with light and exciting classical music, including pieces by Dvorak, Ravel and Borodin.

The winter series will see a tribute to Santana, Australian acoustic rock 'n' roll, the best of brass bands and a ladies barbershop chorus hit the stage, alongside some comic opera.

Doona Greene and Jay Weston will be back with their show An Afternoon with Dusty and Roy. The concerts will also see performances by Jake Dennis and the Mint Jazz Band, Zydecats, and Jane Germain, Ian Simpson and The Yahoos.

Tickets are available from 1.15pm on the day of the concert and are allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. All attendees must be present when the tickets are allocated. There will be a short break during the concert where attendees can enjoy a coffee or drink from the bar.

The sunday@subi free concert series covers a mix of themes and genres suitable for all ages. The concerts run every Sunday from 23 June to 25 August at 2pm at the Subiaco Arts Centre, 180 Hamersley Road, Subiaco.
