Join the party at this year's Subi Street Festival

The streets of Subiaco will come alive in a burst of colour, dancing, street performances, costumes and rhythmic beats for this year's Subi Street Festival on the Thursday 5 December between 5pm and 9pm.

The city's stall will be back again with fun, family-friendly activities that are sure to spark creativity in both the young and old, as well as some fantastic competitions and giveaways.

Amongst the many activities on offer, visitors to the city's stall will have fun creating their own free mask befitting of any carnival or mardi gras, enjoying free fairy floss, and testing their Subiaco knowledge with a spin of the prize wheel.

The festival is a free event that is open to the whole community. Each year the Subi Street Festival attracts people from all over Perth to the streets of Subiaco for an evening of food, music, fashion, art and entertainment.

Mayor Henderson said: "It's wonderful to see the diverse range of people that come in to Subiaco each year to enjoy the festival."

She continued: "It has become increasingly popular with young and old as an event that really does have something for everyone."

Event-goers can expect to be enthralled and entertained by this year's Latin carnivale theme that will bring the famous festivals of Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires and Santiago to the streets of Subiaco.

Rokeby Road between Roberts and Bagot roads and Station Square Road will be closed to traffic for the festival, creating a safe, easily accessible family event. For more information regarding road closures during the event, visit www.subiaco.wa.gov.au
