

Free events for Youth Week

WA Youth Week is almost here, and to celebrate, the City of Subiaco is presenting three fun, free events for young people aged between 10 and 25.

Youth Week provides young people with opportunities to express ideas, raise important issues, and showcase their talents and contributions.

While the City provides a strong program of events and initiatives for young people throughout the year, we also look to run additional events throughout Youth Week to celebrate the young people in our community and ensure their voice is heard.

This year's free Youth Week events include laser tag sessions on Friday 11 April, a basketball competition on Sunday 13 April and a skate clinic on Tuesday 15 April.

Minute with the MAYOR

A quick monthly update from Mayor David McMullen

Last month I wrote about things coming together - namely our public realm upgrades, destination marketing and economic development.

This month, our Harmony Week celebration leveraged off the already-successful Subi Night Markets. The result: Hundreds of people, over and above the usual market crowds, all out and about enjoying a Saturday evening in Subi. Vibrancy in action.

Council will continue to think big picture. A new Council Plan is coming soon.

Keep it social

The City is now on Instagram. Head to instagram.com/cityofsubi to start following and stay up to date with the latest news and events.

City supports local economy

The City featured in two economic development events last week to continue to support a strong local economy.

The Western Suburbs Business Association ran 'Breakfast with the Mayor' where Mayor David McMullen led an engaging discussion on the local economy, how the City of Subiaco is redefining the role of local government and what high performing Councils can do to foster business success.

Mayor McMullen was also a speaker at a WA Property Council event co-hosted by the City: 'Subi surge: the rebirth of Rokeby Road and surrounds'.

Vote for your preferred Mueller Park playground

Time flies when you're having fun, and the current playground at Mueller Park is at the end of its safe and useful play life. We are inviting the community to help us in the exciting process of renewing this playground.

We have three playground concepts for Mueller Park playground for you to review. The options were developed by playground designers in response to community feedback from the previously run Stage One consultation. All three concepts retain the surrounding fence and each includes a variety of play equipment and surfaces.

Please let us know your preferred option by 5pm Tuesday 22 April via www.haveyoursay.subiaco.wa.gov.au/mp-playground.

Where possible, we encourage you to look at the options with the playground experts in your life (children, grandchild, nieces, nephews etc). We value input from all ages.

Museum gallery refurbishment

Subiaco Museum's permanent exhibition space is getting its first major refurbishment since the '70s.

The refurbishment will create a more interactive, engaging and contemporary experience for visitors as well as a better environment for preserving and displaying the City's heritage collections, and a more flexible space to deliver community programs.

Works will include upgraded lighting; new interactive displays; audio-visual elements; and replacing ageing cabinetry.

The works are expected to commence this winter and take about two weeks.

Sustainability workshops

The City has partnered with Earthwise to deliver a series of sustainability focussed workshops for the community this April and May.

Join a hands-on mending workshop for clothes; a session exploring compost, worms and bokashi buckets; or learn all about seed saving – and all for free.

The City is also running a separate free workshop – Planning Your Electrification Transition – at Subiaco Library on Monday 7 April to help you learn about the benefits of powering your home, appliances and vehicles with renewable electricity.
