

Celebrating Shenton Park's hidden histories

The City is currently inviting nominations for places in Shenton Park to be included on the Local Heritage Survey.

The Survey is a resource that provides the City with a cultural and historical record of the area and tells the story of the development of the district.

Places of heritage value, including buildings, streetscapes, gardens, man-made parks and trees can be nominated for inclusion on the Survey.

Some places in Shenton Park that have already been listed within the Survey include Lake Jualbup, the Yilgarn Street Heritage Area, the West Subiaco Workers' Homes Board Heritage Area, a Morton Bay Fig tree on the south side of Onslow Road, and houses along Herbert Road, Keightley Road, Evans Street, Commercial Road, and Hopetoun Terrace (to name a few!).

Nominations for the survey close on Monday 4 August via www.haveyoursay.subiaco.wa.gov.au/shenton-lhs. Pictured above is the Rosalie Wine Saloon on Keightley Road, c. 1930, courtesy of Subiaco Museum.

The City will be hosting a free walking tour; 'From "primeval forest" to established suburb in 30 years', from 10am to 12pm on Saturday 12 July, which will offer a historical overview of the suburb's transformation, hosted by heritage consultant Annette Green. Minute with the MAYOR

A quick monthly update from Mayor David McMullen

Community safety is a community priority; and Council has now adopted our first Community Safety Framework.

This is about more than just crimes and policing. We won't roll out CCTV everywhere and anywhere. We will however take a coordinated, evidence-based approach to the separate but interrelated issues of: Homelessness; Social wellbeing and mental health; Partnerships and collaborations; and Public spaces and infrastructure. So, when you next enjoy one of our activations or events, you are actually becoming part of the solution.

Calling young writers

The 2025 Craig Silvey Award for Young Writers is open for submissions at 9.30am on Friday 18 July. Western Australian school students from years one to twelve are invited to submit original stories.

There will also be a series of writing workshops at Subiaco Library to help writers hone their stories. Book your spot via www.subiaco.wa.gov.au/events.

Visit www.subiaco.wa.gov.au/award to read more and make a submission.

Reminder: Have your say on the Shenton Park Community Centre

The City is reimagining the Shenton Park Community Centre, and we'd love to hear from current users, or anyone who would like to have their say on the future of the Centre.

Visit www.haveyoursay.subiaco.wa.gov.au to fill out our online survey before Monday 28 July.

Tidying our laneways

The City's annual laneway pruning program sees our Street Maintenance team prune and remove dead vegetation from around laneways to ensure safe clearances around fence lines, and to keep our streets and laneways looking smart.

Grants supporting community events

The City has awarded $15,000 to five community organisations in its latest grant round.

Recipients and initiatives include the Subiaco Women's Shed, Learn to Square Dance classes, The Dining Hub; facilitated by the Rotary Club of Subiaco, and an Entrepreneurship and Business Skills workshop for neurodivergent members of the community aged 8 to 16.

2025-26 Rate Notices to be issued in October

The City is transitioning to a new software system, which will result in a one-off change to the timing of Rate Notices and payment deadlines for 2025-26.

City ratepayers will receive their 2025-26 Rate Notices in October 2025.

This year, ratepayers will have a new payment reference number on their Rate Notices, and this new number must be used when making a rates payment.

BPOINT details have also changed.
