

School holiday programs for your budding artist or athlete

Join Subiaco Library for Art in April, and learn from incredible WA artists like award-winning illustrator Sean E Avery, and multidisciplinary artist, graphic designer and illustrator Tyrown Waigana. These sessions are perfect for picking up tips and tricks, and great for creative children and those wanting to enter the upcoming Shaun Tan Award for Young Artists. Bookings open Monday 27 March via the City's website.

Lords Recreation Centre wants to make the holidays as fun as possible for you and your little one. Lords has extended hours of care from 8.30am to 4pm across all program days. Programs are run by experienced leaders, focusing on developing every child's confidence and creativity in a group environment, as well as having fun and enjoying the day.

There will be exciting guests from WestOz Wildlife, science experiments, and creative 'make your owns' which kids will get to take home and show off. Each day involves pool games conducted by qualified staff, and teamwork and sport games on the sport courts.

The approval means the premises can be used for social services and accommodation for young people.

The change was assessed under Local Planning Scheme No. 5 and other applicable planning controls to ensure residential amenity is preserved. It was approved subject to a number of conditions.
