Polyphagous shot-hole borer

Polyphagous shot-hole borer (PSHB), a wood-boring exotic beetle, was first detected in the City in January 2023, and has since spread to further City locations. Trees at Subiaco Common, Lake Jualbup, and Rosalie Park are among those affected.

The City is working closely with the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development (DPIRD) to monitor the situation. Where trees are infected, DPIRD will be implementing prescribed treatments, which can include pruning of the tree or its full removal.

Further information can be found at www.agric.wa.gov.au/borer.
